

Jonathan Martinez

279-20

Crazy Lighthouse Pad

I decided to work on this piece when a friend of my, who does the something ask me!!! How come you don't start doing something with the time that you have in your hands? you are doing nothing else anyways. So I asked him to help me get started and this is what I created. It's a combination of a bachelor's pad and a house light but I decided to put my own twist on it I wanted to build something different than the rest of the other people, so I came up with crazy lighthouse pad. This is my first project but I will definitely keep doing it, in the future God willing. Thank you for taking your time, to look at this project hope you like it. God Bless