It was already a bad day because I woke up that way again then it got even worse after talkin to my son for the first time in over ten years. I Really hurt Him so He said some Really hurtful things. my two friends spent the next hour trying to cheer me up talking about things we hope to do when we get out. so the bike is just a dream we imagined thats why the wheels are glowing and where the glow touch's our clothes they turn from prison blues to Street clothes. Since then I became a grandfather and we are building a new Relationship and Im hoping to see them some day.

I Love Squirrels and I eat bagels every night so if I was one of them this would be me ^{or} they are like us when ~~to~~ one sees the other with something they want to know what you got.
