I Know the Pieces Fit

Art to me has become a way to express the view point of myself and how I see the world. I have spent my entire adult life behind bars. So it's a way to heal and free myself. This piece I am entering is a representation of the missing parts of not only my life but my personality. And as I come to know myself and become a better person. I am putting all of the pieces back together to be the man I am meant to be and not who I was... It's a statement of pain loss and redemption.
