Time for a Change

My art reflects how i feel and visualize the world today. I create art related to how im feeling that day or if somebody ask me to draw something for them.

Also i come from a rough place in life, so i draw to escape into my own world.

This piece represents forgiveness and lost souls.

its never to late to make a change in your life even if it seems impossible to do so.

(Time for a Change) - name of my artwork.

I have more work to submit but supplies are limited so it takes longer and i do not like rushing.

Hope you like the art, i look forward to submitting more in the future.
